Program Details

About the Program

Our Robotics program is available at Oxford International Vancouver in partnership with STEMA Learning Center. Students dive into interactive technology, developing foundational programming logic, computational thinking, and engineering skills.

By the end of the program, students will have learned to build, wire, and program their own custom robots, bringing their code to life in the physical world. It's the perfect opportunity for anyone interested in robotics, coding, and future technology careers.

Did You Know?

Vancouver is one of Canada's fastest growing technology hubs, home to hundreds of innovative companies specializing in robotics, AI, gaming, and software development.
